HUMAN SERVICES CERTIFICATE

PROGRAM DESCRIPTION The Human Services Program prepares students for employment in a broad range of human services settings. It consists of seven core courses and offers additional specialized courses to develop competencies for specific employment settings. Although individual courses are offered online, the full certificate is currently not available in online environments. The A.S. degree requires 60 units total, 26 in the major, in addition to general education requirements and electives.

The Human Services field is very broad covering mental health, substance recovery, families support, domestic violence, child and elderly neglect and abuse, the exceptional child, and the homeless. It is a career concerned with meeting human needs and improving the overall quality of people's lives.

Human Services professionals assist other professionals from a wide variety of fields, from psychology to rehabilitation. They provide client services and support for families. Among the services provided by Human Services professionals may be helping clients identify benefits or social and community services available to them. They also assist social workers in a variety of ways helping to build human and family relationships, address substance abuse situations, and provide rehabilitation or adult day care services. With such a wide range of opportunities available, a Human Services professional has a world of opportunities available to them.

CAREER OPPORTUNITIES

- * Human Services Technician
- * Family Development Specialist
- * Case Worker
