

INCOMPATIBILITY OF OFFICES

The doctrine of incompatibility of offices addresses the potential for divided loyalty that can occur when a person holds two public offices with overlapping jurisdiction.

What are incompatible offices? Public offices are incompatible where the performance of the duties of either office could have significant adverse effect on the other, such as where:

- ▶ One office has supervisory, auditory or removal power over the other.
- ▶ There is the potential for significant clash of duties or loyalties in the exercise of the official duties of the offices.
- ▶ An actual conflict is not required, and only one potential clash of duties triggers the application of the doctrine.

What happens if a person holds two incompatible offices? The consequence of an incompatibility of office is generally that the person, upon accepting the second office, is deemed to have forfeited the first office.

How is this enforced? The doctrine is typically enforced through a proceeding known as quo warranto. An interested member of the public can file this kind of proceeding, but must first obtain permission to do so from the California Attorney General's office, which determines whether the application presents a substantial issue of fact or law requiring judicial resolution and would serve the overall public interest.

One opinion by the Attorney General addressed a water district director who was subsequently elected to a school board seat at Baldwin Unified. The two agencies' jurisdictional boundaries overlapped. The Attorney General reviewed the statutory duties of a water district (sale of water, restriction of supply during shortages, improvement of infrastructure) and noted that a potential for a significant clash of loyalties existed, since a large portion of the school district's water was supplied by the water district. The opinion, which granted permission to sue in quo warranto stated, "In such circumstances, a person sitting on the governing board of both districts would have divided loyalties in acting in the best interests of the water seller and water purchaser."

Other examples of incompatible offices:

- Member of County Board of Education and State Board of Education
- Member of School Board and Planning Commission with common territory
- County Superintendent and State Board of Education Member

NEW TRUSTEES: IT MAY BE BETTER TO GIVE THAN TO RECEIVE! A SHORT PRIMER ON GIFT LIMITATIONS FOR PUBLIC OFFICIALS

Newly elected trustees may experience for the first time educational vendors offering gifts of various kinds – travel, dining, seminars, tickets, etc. New trustees need to be aware that in their role as public officials, gifts often carry with them disclosure obligations and overall limitations on acceptance. Financial disclosure forms (the Fair Political Practices Commission's Form 700 Statement of Economic Interest) must be filed within 30 days after they assume office.

Many trustees attend workshops in the fall to learn about school governance and receive updates on a host of education topics. This bulletin is intended as a brief primer for new trustee on things to watch out for with respect to gifts while traveling on District business.¹

1. What is considered a gift? A gift is something of value provided to you for your personal benefit, for which you have not provided goods or services of equal value in return.

From this basic definition, there are many, many exceptions and fine points in the law. However, any time you are offered a gift, you should stop and consider whether there may be a consequence in your role as a public employee or elected official. Even when it is lawful, a public servant has a personal decision to make when acceptance of the gift could reflect negatively on his or her district or undermine the integrity of its decision-making processes. Once you identify a potential issue, bring it to your Superintendent/President/Chancellor's attention so that it can be reviewed with legal counsel, or contact the Fair Political Practice Commission's advice hotline.

The following are examples of common situations requiring an analysis of the applicable gift limitation rules and exceptions.

Example 1:

A friend treats you to a golf weekend in Santa Barbara. Your friend has conferred a personal benefit on you. You have received a gift which needs to be analyzed under the gift rules.

Example 2:

A software company offers free software, along with registration and lodging at a seminar on how to use the software, to the district's information technology director and board members.

Example 3:

At the community college trustees annual meeting, a board member attends a reception and dinner paid for by a law firm serving school and community college districts.

2. Do I need to worry about gifts involving family members?

For the most part, gifts to a public official from immediate family are not a concern. If the family member is acting as an agent or intermediary for someone other than one of these family members, the gift is subject to the rules relating to gifts. For example, a gift from a relative which is in reality subsidized by a vendor will be subject to the legal limitations.

If Uncle Bernie gives you a shipment of roof shingles which are really provided on behalf of his employer, it will be subject to the gift rules even though from a family member.

¹According to the nonprofit Institute for Local Government, "The goal underlying California's gift reporting and gift limits is to prevent either the perception or the reality of gift giving influencing public officials' actions. This is because public agency actions should always promote the public's interests, as opposed to narrow personal or political interests." KERN COMMUNITY COLLEGE DISTRICT

Process of Decision Making

Introduction

The Chancellor, through delegated authority of the Board of Trustees, has numerous committees, councils, and other groups who provide advice, recommendations, and/or formal proposals related to Policies and Procedures, and other decisions necessary to the operation of the District. This participatory governance structure provides the Chancellor with advice and recommendations, but it is the Chancellor who has the responsibility for deciding on the route a proposal will take, and for its final disposition. A description of this existing governance procedure follows:

1. Development of Board Policy and Procedures

- a. Existing Policies and Procedures appear in the Board Policy and Procedures Manual with dates of adoption of Policies by the Board of Trustees, and approval of Procedures by the Chancellor. These Policies and Procedures, in large measure, govern the operation of the Kern Community College District. The Chancellor's role and responsibilities provide for wide participation in decision making. The Chancellor's Office makes many decisions on a daily basis within the framework of decision making described in this document, and in the accompanying Functional Mapping for Decision Making Chart.
- b. Policies pertain to broad directions for the administration of the District as specified by the California Education Code, Title 5 Regulations, and other state and federal agencies. Policies are adopted by the Board of Trustees after consideration and recommendations by appropriate participatory governance groups cited in this document.
- c. Procedures pertain to the details of the administration of policies adopted by the Board of Trustees, or of Title 5 Regulations adopted by the Board of Governors of the California Community Colleges. Procedures are approved by the Chancellor of the District after consideration and recommendations by appropriate participatory governance groups cited in this document.

b. Role of Chancellor's Cabinet in Decision Making

- i. The Chancellor's Cabinet is the clearing house for the consideration of all proposals for creation of or amendments to Board Policies and Procedures as well as considering other issues that may require decisions. This body has a broader representation than the Chancellor's Administrative Council including the College Presidents, the Vice Chancellors, and other District Administrators. The Cabinet, after due research and consideration makes its recommendations to the Chancellor.
- ii. The Chancellor may refer the proposed changes in policy or procedures recommended by the Cabinet to the District Consultation Council for further consideration, and for recommendations from that body. The Chancellor, in the consideration of proposals takes into account whether the subject under consideration is governed by a union agreement by "reliance primarily on the advice and judgment of the Academic Senate", or by the "obligation to reach mutual agreement" with the Academic Senate. The Board of Trustees may decide which of these two options will be used in the decision making process according to its own discretion, or as is cited in existing Board Policy.
- iii. With respect to Board Policies, following District Consultation Council considerations and recommendations, the Chancellor may recommend the proposed changes to the Board of Trustees for adoption. Once adopted, these Policies are incorporated into the Board Policies and Procedures Manual.
- iv. With respect to Procedures, it is the Chancellor's responsibility to seek the advice and recommendations of the Chancellor's Cabinet and District Consultation Council, if deemed appropriate, and to give final approval to these procedures prior to incorporation into the Board Policies and Procedures Manual.

c. Role of the District Consultation Council in Decision Making

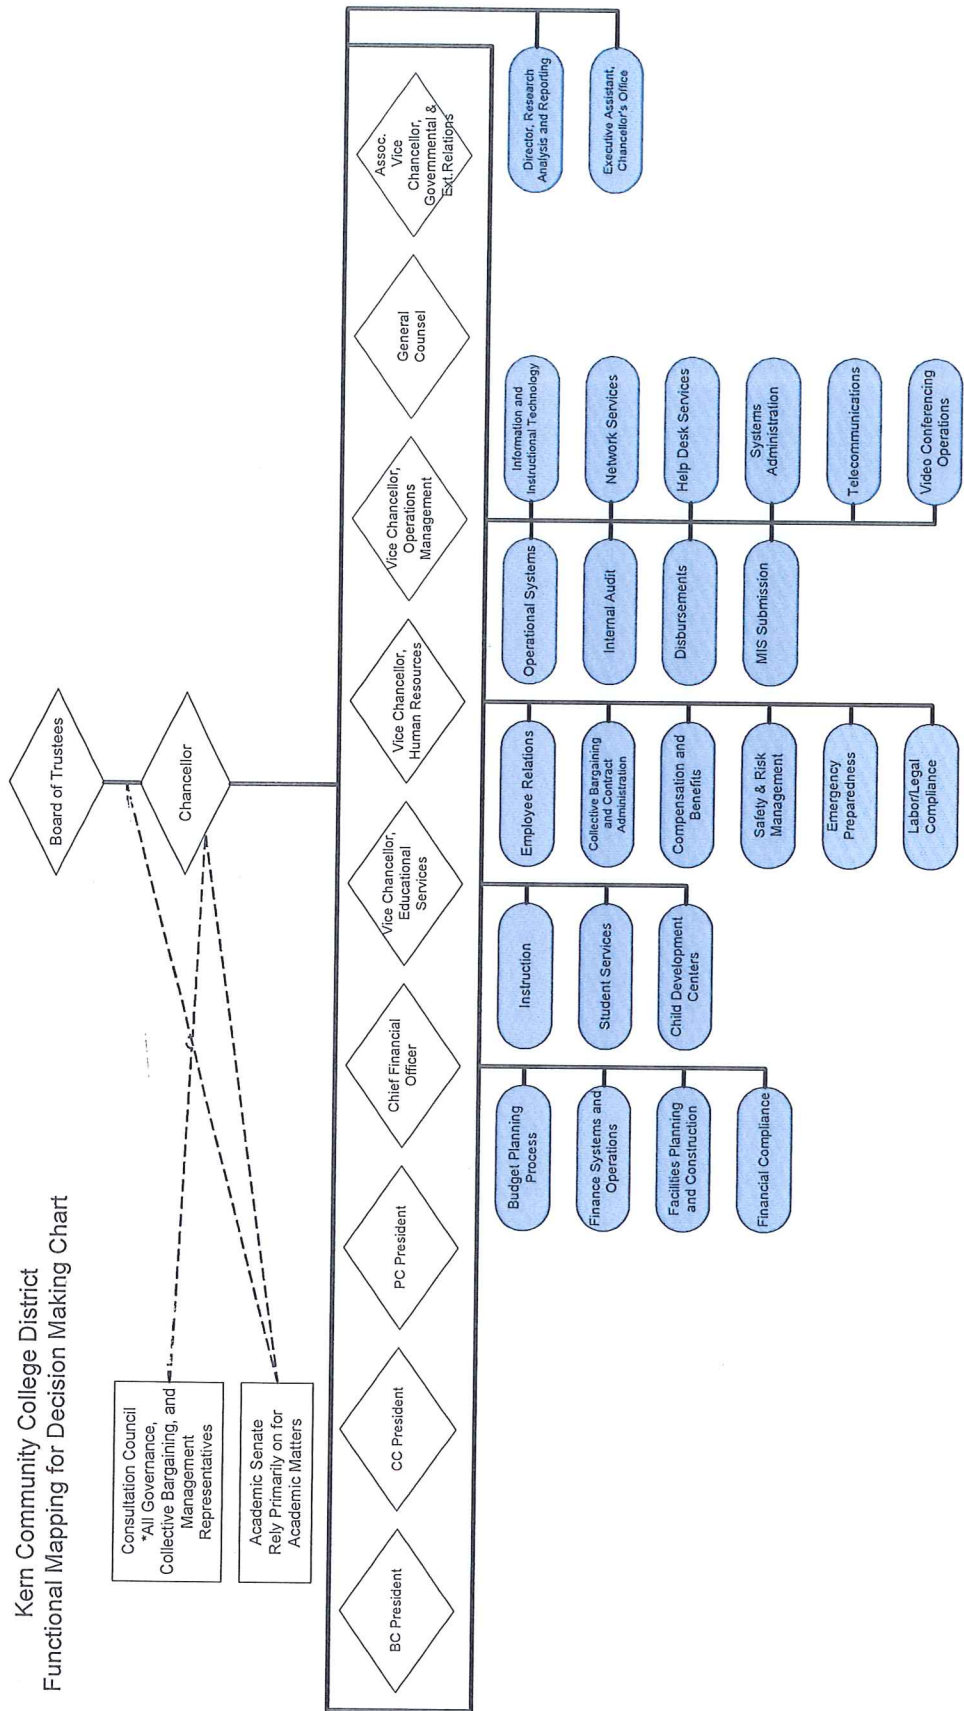

- i. The District Consultation Council is a collegial consultative body designed to serve the good of the District. The group facilitates timely, factual, and clear communication between constituents and the Chancellor as a means to help make informed District-wide decisions.

- iv. It is through the Consultation Council that the academic senates and the administration “consult collegially” in the development of recommendations related to policies and procedures. This consultation provides time for Senates on the campuses to review the matter under consideration before a final recommendation is made to the Chancellor for Board of Trustees decision.
- e. Role of District-wide Committees in Decision Making
 - i. There are currently fourteen (14) District-wide Committees that the Chancellor depends on for advice and recommendations in the governance process. The history, purposes, composition, and frequency of meetings of these 14 Committees are a matter of record in the Chancellor’s Office. The Chancellor designates the Chair of these Committees. Membership on the Committees is described under composition, and in all instances includes representations from the Colleges and the District.
 - ii. With respect to decisions having District-wide application, the District-wide Committees channel their suggestions and/or recommendations to the Chancellor for consideration and disposition.
- f. Role of Collective Bargaining Agreement in Decision Making
 - i. Collective Bargaining agreements concluded through negotiations with the respective recognized employee groups are governed by statutes and memoranda of agreement. These agreements, once concluded, are taken to the Board of Trustees for approval. These agreements must be within the scope of collective bargaining as determined by State statutes, and once adopted by the Board of Trustees are binding as they relate to conditions of work.

3. Summary

- a. The participatory governance commitment is reflected in the decision making process described above.
- b. The Chancellor of the Kern Community College District participates actively in the decision making process described above, and in doing so is fully conversant with the recommendations that are forwarded to the Chancellor level for decisions to be made in a timely manner.

STRATEGIC PLAN

2011/12 – 2014/15

Approved by the Board of Trustees
November 10, 2011

Dear Colleagues,

Helping students succeed in their classes and complete their educational goals is our aspiration, our mission and our calling. The Kern Community College District joins districts and colleges throughout California and the nation in focusing on student success. The 2011-12 KCCCD Strategic Plan is evidence of this focus.

The building blocks of student success are all here. Strategic Plan objectives identify actions related to instructional and operational goals that work in tandem to support our students. The KCCCD Strategic Plan emphasizes preparing students for college-level courses and improving student attainment of a Certificate of Achievement, Associate Degree or transfer. The plan outlines district-wide goals to maintain financial stability, increase channels of communication and promote funding growth.

The 2011-12 KCCCD Strategic Plan is the product of many hours of work by a cadre of employees representing every campus and group. Drafts of the plan were circulated to all employees for feedback and revision. Thank you for your contributions to the creation, revision and execution of the strategic plan that charts the course for our district and our colleges. Thank you for the work you have already done and for the work you are about to undertake as we carry out this important plan of action. The result is a triumph of teamwork that brings promise and hope to our students and their families for generations to come.

Sincerely,

Sandra V. Serrano
Chancellor

STRATEGIC PLANNING PROCESS

The Strategic Planning Process began with the naming of the Strategic Planning Work Group (SPWG) representatives from each of the colleges and the district office. Members represented faculty; classified staff; confidential employees; college administrators, including all three college presidents; district administrators; and one student.

During the planning sessions, SPWG members engaged various activities including analyzing the external and internal scans and their impact on the district; analyzing the results of the surveys; determining the critical issues and turning them into goals; and assuring that the objectives were measurable. In addition, they proposed a new district-wide planning cycle that is aligned with the accreditation cycle, and a district-wide planning process wherein the colleges develop operational plans for the district-wide strategic plan and link their strategic plans to the district-wide plan.

In order to engage as many employees as possible in the planning process, it was decided that three surveys would be conducted. With the help of the District Informational Technology Department, this huge undertaking was successfully accomplished.

The first survey asked respondents to review and indicate the relevancy and importance of the current mission, vision, values, and initiatives. The second survey asked respondents to participate in a SWOT analysis by indicating their perceptions of the district-wide strengths, weaknesses, opportunities and threats or critical issues. The third survey asked them to list the top three issues that must be addressed district-wide in the next three to five years. The results of these surveys helped to frame the discussion at each planning session.

Lisa Fitzgerald, district director of research analysis and reporting and Veronica Van Ry, professional expert, provided the internal and external environmental scans for the work group to analyze.

The agendas for the four planning sessions can be summarized as follows:

Session One – The group reviewed and critiqued the existing strategic plan and determined what elements needed to be changed. It was the consensus of the group that there were too many values, too many initiatives, outdated initiatives, no measures, and not enough emphasis on student success. SPWG members also determined a strategic planning glossary was needed.

Session Two – The group decided that the elements of the plan would be values, vision, mission, goals, and measurable objectives. Strategies and action plans would be written at each of the four sites – district office and the three colleges. The group reviewed the SWOT survey and the external and internal scans and the impact of the data on the district.

Session Three – The group reviewed the critical issues identified in the survey and compared them to issues identified in the review of the SWOT and the environmental scans, the previous Strategic Plan, and the Board's priorities. Six critical issues were turned into goals.

Session Four – The group finalized objectives for all six goals. Also, members developed a communication plan for disseminating the Strategic Plan, discussed the presentation to the Board, and developed a recommended three-year strategic planning cycle as well as several other recommendations.

In between sessions, various members of the work group engaged in activities such as drafting revisions of the values; tallying, categorizing, and analyzing survey results; developing flow charts; developing a SWOT diagram; and drafting objectives.

An overarching goal of the SPWG members during this process was to assure that the strategic plan was concise and measurable. The group wanted a limited number of values so employees could remember them and a limited number of goals and objectives for implementation to be manageable.

SPWG members also desired to engage more people in the implementation process and to assure that the college and district office strategic plans were linked to the district-wide plan. By having the operational plans (strategies and action plans) developed at the colleges and district office, and by engaging in strategic management to assure that assignments are made and monitored, the group felt it accomplished both desires.

The SPWG also wanted to assure a student success emphasis. The goals and objectives have accomplished this as well.

Descriptions of various planning activities and elements are found in the Strategic Plan's appendix section. This includes the strategic planning glossary, flow charts for developing the strategic and operational plans, and the district planning cycle.

Strategic Planning Glossary

|------------------------------------|--|
| What is strategic planning? | A proactive attempt to create the kind of future we want for the district. |
| What is strategic thinking? | An attempt to create the kind of future we want instead of accepting someone else's thinking about the future. Visionary and proactive, not reactive. Willing to stretch for the ideal and not settle for the attainable. |
| What is a strategic plan? | A document used to organize the present on the basis of projections of the desired future. A practical action-oriented guide based on an examination of internal and external factors that directs goal-setting and resource allocation to achieve meaningful results over time (usually 3-5 years). |

The following are the elements of this strategic plan (in order of appearance):

|---------------------------|---|
| Values | Enduring, core beliefs or principles that KCCD's employees hold in common and that guide them in performing their work and in interacting with students. |
| Vision | Description of the accomplishments for which the district will become known. |
| Mission | A broad statement of the unique purpose for which the district exists and the specific function it performs. |
| Environmental Scan | A snapshot of internal and external factors that influence the direction of the plan. Usually includes an internal analysis, external analysis, and a SWOT analysis. May also include community engagement to involve members of the community in the planning process. |
| External Scan | A look at the changing conditions and needs in the district's service area, county, and region, especially in the areas of demographics, labor market information, competition and community perceptions; and trends in the economy, education, technology, politics and social issues. |

| Internal Scan | A look at the district's and/or colleges' internal data, particularly as the information relates to student success, completion, culture and climate in order to identify issues, concerns that need to be addressed or programs that should be enhanced. |
| SWOT Analysis | An examination of the internal and external environment that helps to identify areas to address in the plan. The acronym stands for Strengths, Weaknesses, Opportunities and Threats. Strengths and Weaknesses are internal to the district. Opportunities and Threats are from the external environment. |
| Strategic Goals | Fundamental issues the district must address and that give direction for accomplishing the mission. Broad, general statements of what the district wants to accomplish. Desired ends which are not measurable or specific. |
| Strategic Initiatives or Strategic Directions | Statements that provide future direction. Similar to goals, but longer and more specific. |
| Objectives with Progress Measures | Specific, measurable outcomes. They tell what it will look like if the goal is accomplished, but not how to accomplish it. They focus efforts on demonstrable results and broad categories for planning resource allocation. Must have two forms of measurement, one of which is always time. The other choices are quality, quantity, or money (cost). |
| Key Performance Indicators | Measures used to determine if the goal or initiative has been accomplished. Examples: student retention rates, dollars raised, employee satisfaction. |

While not specifically a part of the strategic plan document, these elements are required in order to implement, manage, and evaluate the plan:

|---------------------|---|
| Action Plans | Action plans spell out the specific steps to be taken to accomplish the strategy that was decided upon to reach the goal. They are the "who, what, when, how, and how much" of the operational plan. They are detailed with no "plans to plan." They make the strategic plan operational. |
|---------------------|---|

|-----------------------|---|
| Accountability | The demonstration to the public that the programs, services and management of the district are responsible and effective. Often provided in an annual report or institutional effectiveness report. |
| Assessment | The collection, review and use of data and information about progress of the action plans in order to determine if the goals and objectives are being accomplished, and the impact of that accomplishment. Assessment goes hand in hand with evaluation. |
| Baseline | A level of previous or current performance that can be used to set improvement goals and targets. |
| Benchmarking | The process of regularly comparing and measuring the district against its peers (similar in size, demographics, etc.) to gain information that will help it to take action to improve performance. |
| Collaboration | To work together, sharing ideas and resources, especially in a joint intellectual effort. |
| Collaboratives | Groups that come together to solve problems, share best practices, implement a project, or address issues or ideas of value to the district. |
| Constituency | A specific group within an organization or served by an organization. |
| Demographics | The characteristics of human populations and population segments, e.g. race, gender, age. |
| Evaluation | A study to determine the extent to which the district reached its goals. Put simply, going back to determine: Did we do what we said we were going to do? What evidence do we have that we were successful? Does the data collected in the study show that we accomplished our goals and objectives? Did they have the intended effect? |
| Implementation | Making the steps in an action plan happen. |
| Outcomes | The actual results achieved, as well as the impact or benefit of the action. |
| Proactive | Acting in advance to do deal with an expected difficulty. |

Resource Allocation

The determination and allotment of resources – financial, human, physical and time – necessary to carry out the strategies and achieve the objectives within a priority framework.

Stakeholder

Any person or group with a vested interest in the outcome of the plan.

Strategic Management

Assuring that the right people and positions are in place to implement the plan. Assignments are made and performance monitored.

Strategy

Broadly stated means of deploying resources to achieve the strategic goals and objectives. In general, what the district and/or its colleges must do to accomplish an objective attached to a goal. Each objective has an action plan, and each action plan starts with a strategy, followed by the action steps (tasks) that must be implemented to accomplish the strategy, and therefore accomplish the goal and objective.

An act to amend Sections 76300, 78210, 78211, 78211.5, 78212, 78213, 78214, 78215, 78216, and 78218 of, and to repeal Section 78212.5 of, the Education Code, relating to community colleges.

LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL'S DIGEST

SB 1456, as introduced, Lowenthal. Community colleges: Seymour-Campbell Student Success Act of 2012.

(1) Existing law establishes the California Community Colleges, under the administration of the Board of Governors of the California Community Colleges, as one of the segments of public postsecondary education in this state.

Existing law requires community college district governing boards to charge students an enrollment fee of $46 per unit per semester, effective with the summer term of the 2012 calendar year. Existing law also authorizes the board of governors to waive this fee under certain circumstances related to the income status of the student.

This bill would further require that a student qualifying for a fee waiver identify a degree, certificate, transfer, or career advancement goal and meet academic and progress standards determined by the board of governors.

(2) Existing law, known as the Seymour-Campbell Matriculation Act of 1986, defines "matriculation" as a process that brings a college and a student who enrolls for credit into an agreement for the purpose of realizing the student's educational objectives. The act specifies the matriculation services that community colleges are required to provide, including the processing of the application for admission, orientation and preorientation services, assessment and counseling upon enrollment, and postenrollment evaluation of a student's progress.

This bill would revise and recast the act, and rename it the Seymour-Campbell Student Success Act of 2012. The act would state its purpose as increasing California community college access and success by providing effective core matriculation services of orientation, assessment and placement, counseling and education planning, and academic interventions. The bill would specify the responsibilities of students and institutions in entering into the matriculation process.

The bill would require the board of governors to develop a formula for allocating funding for the Student Success and Support Program that would be implemented under the act. The bill would specify that, in the 2012–13 fiscal year and each fiscal year thereafter, the act would be operative only if funds are specifically appropriated for its purposes.

To the extent that the bill would impose new duties on community college districts, it would constitute a state-mandated local program.

(3) The California Constitution requires the state to reimburse local agencies and school districts for certain costs mandated by the state. Statutory provisions establish procedures for making that reimbursement.

This bill would provide that, if the Commission on State Mandates determines that the bill contains costs mandated by the state, reimbursement for those costs shall be made pursuant to these statutory provisions.

Vote: majority. Appropriation: no. Fiscal committee: yes.
State-mandated local program: yes.

The people of the State of California do enact as follows:

Executive Summary

Introduction

In 2004, Assembly Bill 1417 triggered the creation of a performance measurement system for the California Community Colleges (CCC). That legislation and ensuing budget action authorized the California Community Colleges Chancellor's Office (CCCCO) to design and implement a performance measurement system that contained performance indicators for the system and its colleges. As per legislative intent, the CCCCCO collaborated with the system's colleges and advisory structure, a panel of national experts, the Legislative Analyst's Office, the Department of Finance, and the Secretary of Education to formulate this comprehensive system that has become known as "ARCC" (Accountability Reporting for the Community Colleges). In recognizing that the initial report in 2007 required the CCCCCO to test innovative ideas about performance measurement and to use a massive state database, the CCCCCO completed the 2007 ARCC report as a pilot report for the Legislature. The 2012 ARCC report builds upon the prior reports through various improvements in data quality and a new year of data.

Systemwide Performance

This report will benefit policy makers by detailing many of the critical contributions that the California Community Colleges have made in recent years. The most notable findings at the state level include the following:

- A large number of Californians access and use the CCC system; participation rates are high, with about 83 out of every 1,000 people (ages 18 to 65) in the state enrolled in a CCC in 2010-2011.
- The system enrolls almost one-fourth of all 20 to 24-year olds in California, with participation rates of 236 per 1,000 for 2010-2011.
- Community college students who earned a vocational degree or certificate in 2005-2006 saw their wages jump from $29,750 (for the last year before receipt of the award) to $58,777 four years after earning their degree (2009), an increase of almost 100 percent.
- In 2010-2011, the system transferred more than 112,000 students to four-year institutions (public, private, in-state, and out-of-state). The California State University (CSU) system continues as the most frequent transfer destination for community college students with the enrollment of almost 57,000 students from the community colleges. Nearly 16,000 community college students enrolled in the University of California (UC) system, the state's most selective public higher education system. This figure continues a six-year trend of increasing transfers to the UC system.

Executive Summary

- In 2010-2011, the system continued to contribute to the state's health care labor force, more than 8,000 students earned degrees or certificates in nursing.
- The system's contribution in 2010-2011 to the state's workforce included more than 66,000 associate degrees and certificates in vocational/occupational areas.

College Level Performance

The bulk of the ARCC report covers each college's performance on eight critical indicators.

The table below lists the seven indicators for which ARCC has complete data. These numbers are percentages of success among target populations that the colleges and the CCCCCO jointly defined. As a quick snapshot of how the system has done on these indicators, this table displays the figures for the year in which the most recent data are available. If a person needs to analyze the performance of a specific community college, he/she should refer to the individual college rates that appear in the section for "College Level Indicators" rather than to these systemwide rates.

| College Level Performance Indicator | State Rate |
|---|------------|
| 1. Student Progress & Achievement (2005-06 to 2010-11) | 53.6% |
| 2. Completed 30 or More Units (2005-06 to 2010-11) | 73.5% |
| 3. Fall to Fall Persistence (Fall 2009 to Fall 2010) | 71.3% |
| 4. Vocational Course Completion (2010-11) | 76.7% |
| 5. Basic Skills Course Completion (2010-11) | 62.0% |
| 6. ESL Course Improvement (2008-09 to 2010-11) | 54.6% |
| 7. Basic Skills Course Improvement (2008-09 to 2010-11) | 58.6% |

Because the ARCC indicators have unique definitions, we cannot compare these indicators to those generated for other states or by other studies of the California Community Colleges. The evaluation of individual college performance requires the use of the extensive tabulations that we cover next.

Each of the community colleges covered in this report has six pages of information to facilitate and stimulate discussions about college performance within each community. In these six pages per college, the report shows (1) the three-year trend for each of the seven indicators; (2) the college profile (i.e., its enrollment demographics); (3) a comparison of its performance with a peer group (i.e., colleges that have similar environments that affect an indicator); and (4) a self-assessment by each college. Together, this information provides readers with a fair and comprehensive picture of the achievements at any community college—a picture that simple scorecards or rankings would fail to present.

The ensemble of information in the six pages must act jointly as the inputs for any evaluation of a college's performance. Each piece of information contributes something to an evaluation of performance. For example, the year-to-year information alerts us to any trends that may be occurring at a college. The peer grouping information gives us a useful base of comparison (across equally advantaged institutions) for the most recent time period. The college's self-assessment substantially enhances both the year-to-year information and the peer group information by identifying the unique factors of a college that affect its performance. The college demographic profile, in turn, supplies a unique snapshot of the college's service population, information that local officials can use to evaluate community access and the overall enrollment picture.

These six pages for each college deliver the essence of the ARCC's objective for local accountability. Ideally, each college's local governing board and local community will use this package of information for data-based policy discussions. This strategy will benefit communities throughout the state because it equips them with data to address their local priorities. To ensure that this process occurs in each community, the legislation for ARCC requires each college to submit to the CCCCCO by March 15, 2013, documentation of interaction by each local board of trustees with the 2012 ARCC report.

Conclusion

This sixth year of the ARCC effort improves the annual report that provides the State Legislature and the Governor's Office an ongoing, cost-effective structure for performance improvement that respects and promotes local decision-making. Community colleges (except for Hartnell College, Gavilan College and College of the Sequoias) have already shared the 2011 report with their local board of trustees, as required, and many college administrations have subsequently begun analyses to leverage the data and findings in the ARCC project. As evidenced by the self-assessments within this report, the community colleges have used the ARCC report in different ways to learn how they can improve their performances.

Introduction to the 2012 ARCC Report

Background

This report on a set of performance indicators for the California Community Colleges (CCC) meets a legislative requirement that resulted from Assembly Bill 1417 (Pacheco, Statutes of 2004, Chapter 581). The details of the legislation appear in Appendix F of this report. For clarity's sake, we have named this reporting system Accountability Reporting for the Community Colleges (or ARCC). The report itself has the title of "Focus On Results." As required by the Legislature, the CCC Chancellor's Office (CCCCO) will produce this report each year and disseminate it so that each college will share the report with its local board of trustees. The Chancellor's Office will also make the report available to state government policymakers and the public at large.

The report's objectives are to make policymakers, local college officials, and elected boards aware of system and college performance in specific areas of effort and to inform the public about overall system performance. Readers will observe that the 2012 report continues to cover noncredit courses as required by Senate Bill 361 (Scott, Statutes of 2006, Chapter 631). Again, this coverage of noncredit outcomes only extends across courses designated as part of the "Enhanced Noncredit" funding. For clarity, this report refers to this group of noncredit courses as CDCP (an acronym for the objective known as Career Development and College Preparation). Readers who want additional details on CDCP performance should refer to a supplemental report that the ARCC staff produce as a follow-up to Focus On Results. The CCCCCO will issue this supplemental report after it has released Focus On Results because of scheduling and resource limitations.

Focus On Results drew upon the contributions of many parties. The framework for ARCC used the expertise of a team of researchers from the Research and Planning Group for the California Community Colleges (i.e., the RP Group), a panel of nationally recognized researchers on college performance, a statewide technical advisory workgroup, and staff at the Chancellor's Office. In Appendix H we list the individuals who played important roles in producing the 2012 ARCC Report.

How to Use This Report

We acknowledge that a variety of people will see this report, and we recognize that individuals will differ widely in their reading objectives and in their familiarity with the report's topic. With this in mind, we have tried to design the report so that policy makers at both the state and local levels will have a clear presentation of essential performance indicators for the system and for each community college within it. The body of the report emphasizes tables of summary data that provide snapshots of system and college level performance. Readers should read the brief introductions to each of these sections (system and college level) to understand their contents. These introductions cover the framework for ARCC, and they should help most readers to understand the performance indicators cited in this report. Appendix E, which presents a short list of terms and abbreviations, may also help the general reader.

We recognize that researchers, analysts, and college officials will require documentation of the methodology for the performance indicators in this report. Such technical details appear in three of the appendices. Appendix B (methods for calculating the indicators), Appendix C (regression analyses for the peer grouping), and Appendix D (cluster analyses for the peer grouping) specifically address methodological issues, and they tend to require technical knowledge on the part of the reader.

The report's first section covers the system's overall performance over time, and this will help readers to see the broad context of the system's performance. The section that follows system performance presents specific information for each college. The first two pages of college-level tables display how that college performed over time on eight basic indicators. The year-to-year figures for these performance indicators should give readers a good idea of how any given college has done during the past few years, especially in terms of its progress in areas that are generally recognized as critical in community colleges.

The third and fourth pages for each college display basic demographic data for the college's enrollment. This information will help readers understand the student population served by that college. For many readers, such information can indicate relevant aspects of a college's effectiveness (i.e., who does the college serve?), plus it can provide additional context for the reported performance indicators.

The fifth page for each college shows the "peer grouping" information for the college. On this page, readers will find a comparison of a college's performance on each of the seven indicators that have adequate data for peer grouping. For each of these seven performance indicators, we have performed a statistical analysis (peer grouping) to identify other California Community Colleges that most closely resemble the college in terms of environmental factors that have linkage to (or association with) the performance indicator. Interested readers should refer to Appendix A to see the names of the colleges that comprise each peer group. We emphasize that the peer group results are rough guides for evaluating college level performance because each college may have unique local factors that we could not analyze statistically for the peer group identification. Because year-to-year stability in peer grouping facilitates local planning and analysis, the 2012 peer groups will remain the same as they were in the 2009 ARCC report. Also, this report will continue to omit from peer grouping the indicator for Career Development and College Preparation (CDCP, or Enhanced Noncredit) courses.

The sixth page for a college shows that college's self-assessment. This brief statement from the college administration may note, among other things, unique factors that our statistical analysis may have missed. The self-assessment is important because it may help to explain the performance figures for a college. The ARCC staff in the Chancellor's Office do not edit these self-assessments from the college administrators, and the only requirement for the content is that it stay within a 500-word limit. Because the word limit forces the self-assessment to focus upon a few basic points, some readers may wish to follow-up with a college that may have other analyses or data that it could not include in the ARCC's brief self-assessment.

The best use of the ARCC Report requires the integration of information from various parts of the report. Judgments about the performance of any particular college should especially pay attention to the sections on year-to-year performance, peer group comparison, enrollment demographics, and the college self-assessment. A focus upon only one of these pieces of information will probably provide an incomplete evaluation of college performance, and this may lead one to make unfair judgments about an institution. Consequently, we hope that users of this report will maintain this multi-dimensional viewpoint (from the different report sections) as they draw their conclusions or as they communicate about the report to other people.

The 2012 report contains numerous changes to past data as well as new data for the most recent academic year. For this reason, analysts should rely primarily upon the 2012 report instead of data from prior ARCC reports. The Chancellor's Office MIS (Management Information System) unit has continued to implement various data improvements that are virtually impossible to complete within a narrow time frame.

ARCC 2012 Report: An Introduction to the College Level Indicators

The Accountability Reporting for the Community Colleges (ARCC) framework specifies that community college performance data should be aggregated, analyzed, and reported at two levels: the individual college level (college level indicators) and across the community college system (systemwide indicators).

The following section of the 2012 ARCC report presents results for the performance indicators chosen for college level accountability reporting. Colleges and schools of continuing education are organized alphabetically (by college name). However, colleges that have “College of the...” in their titles will be found under “C.”

Results for each college are presented in Tables 1.1 to 1.11. The methodology for performance indicators and college profile demographics is found in Appendix B. In the current draft, Tables 1.1 to 1.11 are organized under three main categories: College Performance Indicators, College Profiles, and College Peer Groups.

College Performance Indicators are further categorized as Degree/Certificate/Transfer, Vocational/Occupational/Workforce Development, and Pre-Collegiate Improvement (Basic Skills, ESL, and Career Development and College Preparation).

The tables present the following data for each college:

1. Student Progress and Achievement Rate
2. Percent of Students Who Earned at Least 30 Units
3. Persistence Rate
4. Annual Successful Course Completion Rate for Credit Vocational Courses
5. Annual Successful Course Completion Rate for Credit Basic Skills Courses
6. Improvement Rates for Credit ESL Courses
7. Improvement Rates for Credit Basic Skills Courses
8. Career Development and College Preparation Progress and Achievement Rate
9. College profile summaries, (e.g., headcounts, percentages of student enrollments by various demographics) obtained from the CCCCO Data Mart for the 2012 report; prior ARCC report demographics came from the Chancellor’s Office MIS
10. Summary of the college’s peer groups for each indicator

This college level section includes data for each of the colleges in the system at the time of this report, although data for some earlier time periods may be missing for the newer colleges. Most of the college level tables include data for the most recent academic years; however, the time periods may differ for a few of the indicators. Thus, it is important to note the years specified in the titles or column headings for the tables.

Because analysts of state level policy often need to know how the entire system has performed on specific indicators, we report the total system rates on the ARCC college level indicators in the table below.

| College Level Performance Indicator | State Rate |
|---|-------------------|
| 1. Student Progress & Achievement (2005-06 to 2010-11) | 53.6% |
| 2. Completed 30 or More Units (2005-06 to 2010-11) | 73.5% |
| 3. Fall to Fall Persistence (Fall 2009 to Fall 2010) | 71.3% |
| 4. Vocational Course Completion (2010-11) | 76.7% |
| 5. Basic Skills Course Completion (2010-11) | 62.0% |
| 6. ESL Course Improvement (2008-09 to 2010-11) | 54.6% |
| 7. Basic Skills Course Improvement (2008-09 to 2010-11) | 58.6% |

The rates in this table use the total number of students in the state that qualified for a specific cohort as the denominator. The numerator likewise uses the total number of outcomes in the state. Analysts should avoid using the rates in this table to evaluate the performance of an individual college because these overall rates ignore the local contexts that differentiate the community colleges. Evaluation of individual college performance should focus upon the college level information that appears on the separate pages that follow. On those pages, Tables 1.1 to 1.10 for each college explicitly enable analysts to evaluate a college in an equitable manner.

A Note About the Student Progress and Achievement Rate in the 2012 Report

Student Progress and Achievement Rate (SPAR) outcomes include transfer to a baccalaureate granting institution, which is determined by a student level data match with CSU, UC and National Student Clearinghouse (NSC). The NSC match captures the in-state (ISP) and out-of-state transfers (OOS) and the match traditionally takes place in the spring and fall. The fall match was not complete at the time MIS extracted the data for the report.

A Note About The Career Development and College Preparation Progress and Achievement Rate (CDCP)

The Career Development and College Preparation Progress and Achievement Rate (Table 1.6) was added to the ARCC report in 2008 as a result of legislation (SB 361, Scott, Chapter 631, Statutes of 2006) that increased funding for specific noncredit courses (see Appendix F).

As of this report, we have partial or complete CDCP data for 41 community colleges/schools of continuing education. See Appendix B for a description of the methodology used to obtain data and calculate progress rates for the CDCP indicator and a list of the colleges with CDCP data available for this report.

Although there is no peer grouping for this indicator in the 2012 ARCC, colleges with CDCP funding should consider CDCP performance when they prepare their self-assessments for the final ARCC report.

Adding the CDCP Progress and Achievement Rate to the ARCC report also meant adding CDCP performance data and demographic data for schools of continuing education (e.g., San Francisco Continuing Education, San Diego Continuing Education, etc.). Because they do not offer programs measured by the other ARCC indicators, Tables 1.1 through 1.5 and Table 1.11 are marked with “NA” (Not Applicable) for schools of continuing education. We have included demographic data for these schools, where available, in Tables 1.7 through 1.10.

A Note About the Peer Groups in the 2012 ARCC Report

The Chancellor’s Office has decided to maintain stability in the peer groups by foregoing new peer group formation for this year’s ARCC report. Because 2009 was the last year in which staff performed cluster analysis on the most current data available, the peer groups have remained intact for four consecutive years. However, the Chancellor’s Office will probably need to revise the peer groups in a future ARCC report in order to account for the major shifts in data that have occurred since 2009 and for the emergence of new colleges in the system. Table 1.11 in the 2012 ARCC report retains the peer groups identified for the 2009 report. However, the data in columns 3 through 6 of Table 1.11 have been updated to reflect the most recent performance data for the members of each peer group.

A complete explanation of this year’s strategy can be found in the Introduction to Appendix A.

ARCC 2012 Report: College Level Indicators

Bakersfield College

Kern Community College District

College Self-Assessment

Bakersfield College, founded in 1913, is among the oldest California community colleges. Within a 5,000 square mile geographic area, its service areas include the main campus, a campus in rural Delano 35 miles north, and several outreach locations. It is a comprehensive college offering transfer, basic skills, and career/technical education courses. In 2010-2011, the College served nearly 27,000 ethnically diverse students. Over 50 percent of these students are Hispanic, with increasing numbers of Hispanic students under age 24. In fall 2011, the College received a five-year Hispanic-Serving Institution (HSI) Science, Technology, Engineering, and Mathematics (STEM) grant.

Performance is average or slightly above average on most ARCC indicators. However, the performance trend for the Student Progress and Achievement Rate (SPAR) was relatively stable but decreased over three percent for the current report. This may reflect a slight age shift toward younger students, and increase in students taking basic skills classes since placement of incoming high school graduates into precollegiate mathematics and English courses increased for the most recent five years through 2010-2011. During 2011, the district institutional research team used SPAR data to examine factors that lead to SPAR success. Results from this study received acceptance for presentation at the 2012 CCC Research and Planning Group conference.

In contrast to the SPAR, the Persistence Rate increased five percent while the Percent of Students Who Earned at Least 30 Units increased three percent for the past five reporting periods.

Performance on the Annual Successful Course Completion Rate for Credit Vocational Courses remained slightly above average. The College attributes this to outstanding vocational programs in nursing, child development, fire technology, culinary arts, and industrial technology with active advisory committees and strong community partnerships.

Performance on the Pre-Collegiate Improvement rates for Basic Skills and English as a Second Language (ESL) courses was below average. The College continues its participation in the statewide CB21 (Course-Prior-To-College-Level) coding initiative to code more accurately Basic Skills and ESL courses. Fluctuation in the ESL improvement rates may be due in part to discontinuing the ESL placement essay in 2008-2009; ESL faculty members indicate the placement methodology needs review. In addition, more students are increasingly under-prepared for college level work and take longer to move through the ESL and Basic Skills sequences.

The Career Development and College Preparation Progress and Achievement Rate became available for the first time, and it reflects a three-year average for the ESL Certificate of Completion-Intermediate. The College is assessing the viability of the certificate this year.

Bakersfield College is committed to using self-evaluation and performance indicators for continuous improvement. As part of the self-evaluation process for reaffirmation of accreditation, the College is examining five-year trends of student educational need and achievement progress disaggregated by sociodemographic and educational characteristics. In addition, the College is reviewing performance on ARCC indicators for Hispanic-Serving Institutions of similar size. Dialogue about performance expectations has begun in College Council and Academic Senate, and the new strategic plan performance measurements will incorporate ARCC indicators.

ARCC 2012 Report: College Level Indicators

Cerro Coso Community College

Kern Community College District

College Self-Assessment

Established in 1973, Cerro Coso Community College is one of three colleges within the Kern Community College District. Cerro Coso serves a rural population scattered over 18,000 square miles, the largest community college service area in California. To serve its far reaching communities, Cerro Coso has been offering online classes since 1997 and offers 16 Associate degrees entirely online and as many as 160+ classes online each year.

In 2011, the college conducted a research project to examine factors contributing to our recent middle-of-the-pack outcomes in the SPAR. Better orientation and more expanded offerings of student success courses were determined to be the best intervention on the short-term the college could use to increase these numbers. On the longer term, additional changes include giving priority registration to those completing all matriculation components, more tightly integrating programs of study, and structuring academic pathways to facilitate completion.

These changes are expected to positively affect the 30 Unit and Persistence metrics. Some of the trends in these metrics date back to expansion of the online program, which caused the college to now serve more part-time students than full-time (81%-17%), and more students enrolled in fewer than six units than more (51%-49%). Other demographic factors—such as the large proportion of older students in the small rural communities Cerro Coso serves—means that fewer students are included in the ARCC cohort who complete all matriculation components and pursue a program through to completion. A recent external scan showed the college has a large number of local students 25-40 years old without a college or high school diploma. The college has plans to 1) better determine the educational needs of this population, 2) schedule courses at our local centers to serve those needs more effectively, 3) and reduce the number of full online offerings, creating more hybrid courses with an onsite component.

The study also revealed that Cerro Coso has proportionately fewer students included in the SPAR and 30 Unit cohort than other schools. In prior years, the college enrolled a large number of concurrent high school students. This decline in these enrollments in recent years corresponds with the decline in SPAR and Persistence rates since such students tend to be better completers down the line.

Basic Skills has concentrated efforts in the past two years on improving the instruction of learning/study and self-efficacy skills directly in the classroom resulting in a positive trend in both ARCC Basic Skills measures.

Vocational Education Completion rates continue to lag behind our cohort and are being addressed. A grant-funded initiative underway to more successfully integrate Basic Skills into the CTE curriculum—especially within the first semester—will positively impact future results.

The Improvement Rate for Credit ESL courses is unacceptably low. We run only six ESL classes a year taught by a single adjunct instructor. Though the score is higher than last year and trending in the right direction, special care will be taken to provide additional training and support for this individual.

ARCC 2012 Report: College Level Indicators

Porterville College

Kern Community College District

College Self-Assessment

The city of Porterville and surrounding communities represent a growing population of greater than 100,000 people. Porterville College has been serving the diverse region of Porterville and southeastern Tulare County since 1927. The College serves approximately 4,000 students each term and offers an array of educational opportunities, including associate degrees, transfer preparation, vocational and basic skills education as well as community service and economic development. Hispanic students comprise more than 60 percent of the student body, and the trend is toward increasing numbers of Hispanic students and a younger student body. Further, the college serves an economically depressed area with 16.2% unemployment, and more than three quarters of our students receive financial aid. Additionally, our students are increasingly under-prepared for college-level work.

Porterville College demonstrates average or good performance on most accountability measures. The Student Progress and Achievement Rate (SPAR) has improved for the past two years and is above the average for our peer group. The SPAR is a key indicator for PC, and our district research team recently conducted a study to examine factors that contribute to it. The results of this study are being used in college planning efforts and the research team is hoping to present them at the upcoming Research and Planning Group conference in April 2012.

The percentage of students who earn at least 30 units from the 2005-06 cohort increased after a decline the previous year, and remains the highest among our peer group.

The fall persistence rate showed improvement for the fourth consecutive year and is near the top for our peer group. Our vocational successful course completion rate remained stable and is slightly above the peer group average.

The basic skills improvement rate has improved for each of the past two years, but remains slightly below the peer group average. The college has implemented several basic skills initiatives including increased tutoring and peer mentoring through our Learning Center. We have also implemented a small number of learning communities—two or more linked classes, usually in different subject areas--that work together to enhance the overall learning experience.

The ESL improvement rate is of limited utility for PC. Because we have only one course that meets the ARCC definition for inclusion, all three cohorts combined comprise only 48 students. We have made curriculum changes in ESL which began in spring 2010. These will be partially reflected in our 2013 ARCC report and fully depicted in 2014.

The reader may note a large percentage of students with an "unknown" ethnicity in 2009-10 and a later increase in the percentage of Hispanic students in 2010-11. The large number of students with unknown ethnicities was due to technical problems with the implementation of the new ethnicity categories. Those categories are now properly implemented and we believe the 2010-11 data accurately reflect our college's ethnic makeup.

Despite our average to good performance on most ARCC measures, PC plans to continue to improve results by continually reviewing our curricula and looking for ways to improve student learning.
