Course Description:	In this composition course for transfer to four-year institutions, students develop composition, analytical, and critical reasoning skills through study of literary works (fiction, poetry, and drama). The course emphasizes critical analysis, principles of logic, use of research, and presentation of carefully-reasoned written arguments while developing students' close reading skills and promoting an appreciation for the aesthetic qualities of literature. Students write several expository essays demonstrating sophisticated application of critical thinking skills to literature (total: 8,000 words). The honors course provides more content and requires greater intensity and depth of study than the non-honors course; the honors course also requires at least one extra paper assignment beyond that required in the non-honors course.
Submission Type:	Mandatory Revision This is a cyclical revision intended to align the course content with C-ID, update language throughout the outline, including delivery methods, pare down and rearrange the student-learning outcomes, and respond to assessment. The course was last assessed in Spring 2020 and there were no significant impacts.

Pre-requisites, Co-requisites, Anti-requisites and Advisories

Prerequisite

ENGLC101 - Freshman Composition

Students must be able to write clearly structured academic essays on complex ideas presented in university-level sources, such as academic articles about literature, philosophy, and culture, as well as challenging and complicated literary texts by, for example, Homer, Aeschylus, Shakespeare, John Stuart Mill, Herman Melville, Friedrich Nietzsche, Joseph Conrad, and Anthony Burgess. They also must be able to explain, analyze, and synthesize ideas in university-level reading materials.

Additionally, students must learn to distinguish among facts, premises, inferences, judgments, implications, and fallacious reasoning in academic articles and challenging literary texts, as well as use sound reasoning and relevant supporting details in their own written arguments.

All of these skills require a solid foundation in ENGL C101 in order for students to be successful in advanced composition.

Methods of Instruction

Methods of Instruction

Written work

Rationale

Expository and argumentative essays of 1250-1800 words demonstrating the student's ability to write clearly structured text-based essays which require

1. finding, evaluating, organizing, and effectively integrating college-level source material;
2. employing MLA format and citation apparatus correctly; and
3. analyzing college-level reading material for structure, purpose, audience, and relation of ideas to other texts.

Methods of Instruction

Peer analysis, critique & feedback

Rationale

Peer-editing sessions for additional feedback about essays.

Methods of Instruction

In-class writing

Rationale

Quizzes on critical thinking, knowledge of literary terms, reading comprehension, and interpretive/analytical skills.

Methods of Instruction

Lecture

Rationale

Lectures on the historic or cultural context of literary works, literary terminology, critical theory, form and theory, and language.

Methods of Instruction

Library

Rationale

Research into scholarly sources through library channels such as databases and eBooks.

Methods of Instruction

Instruction through examination or quizzing

Rationale	Quizzes and/or exams on critical thinking, knowledge of literary terms, reading comprehension, and interpretive/analytical skills. Possible question formats may include but are not limited to multiple choice, short answer, matching, and essay questions based on prompts.
Methods of Instruction	Presentations (by students)
Rationale	Honors students present an oral prospectus of their final research paper.
Assignments A. Reading fiction, drama, and poetry. B. Answering reading questions. C. Reading essays. D. Diagramming arguments in order to identify premises and conclusions. E. Studying logical fallacies. F. Completing other critical thinking exercises. G. Doing research. H. Finding, reading, and evaluating secondary sources. I. Planning, drafting, and revising of papers. J. Completing other out-of-class work. K. Doing additional readings and writing assignments for the honors project.
Methods of Evaluation Homework Research Paper Tests Other Project Distance Education Description: how outcomes are evaluated	Rationale Several expository and argumentative essays of 1250-1800 words demonstrating the student's ability to write complete arguments with claims (thesis or hypothesis), evidence (details from the work of literature), warrants (reasoning to show how the evidence validates the claim) and, if necessary, rebuttal (counter-evidence). Students must draft and revise essays; drafts may be graded and/or peer review required. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Example: Construct a deductive argument examining whether Denis Johnson's "Emergency" can be labeled a short story based on Poe's definition of the short story in his review of Twice-Told Tales. • Example: Argue inductively by drawing conclusions about the central concerns of Hawthorne's work by analyzing the themes and images of Young Goodman Brown, the Minister's Black Veil, and The Scarlet Letter. One research paper on an important work or author showing the student's ability to analyze critically, sustain an argument for no fewer than 2000 words, and evaluate and synthesize secondary sources documented according to current MLA style. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Example: Contrast the arguments of J. H. Hexter and R.W. Chambers in their critical essays of Sir Thomas More's Utopia. Quizzes and/or exams on critical thinking, knowledge of literary terms, reading comprehension, and interpretive/analytical skills. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Example: Examine the role of the narrator in Joseph Conrad's Heart of Darkness. Reading responses, as in-class or take-home exercises Honors section project: an additional paper of 2500 words pursuing a topic for intensified study, such as that presented by an additional challenging text or secondary-source studies. Example: Read a variety of secondary sources on John Milton's Paradise Lost, choose one, summarize its argument, and evaluate its usefulness for comprehension of the poem. Outcomes for the various methods of evaluations above are assessed in the following ways: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Research papers are assessed using a rubric. 2. Tests and the final exam are assessed using tabulated scores, plus a rubric for any written components. 3. Participation is assessed weekly using a rubric focused on a set amount of substantive posts and responses to peers.

Delivery Methods

Delivery Method: Please list all that apply -Face to face -Online (purely online no face-to-face contact) -Online with some required face-to-face meetings ("Hybrid") -Online course with on ground testing -iTV – Interactive video = Face to face course with significant required activities in a distance modality -Other

- Face to face
- Online (purely online no face-to-face contact)

- Online with some required face-to-face meetings ("Hybrid")
- Online course with on ground testing
- iTV – Interactive video = Face to face course with significant required activities in a distance modality

Rigor Statement: Assignments and evaluations should be of the same rigor as those used in the on-ground course. If they are not the same as those noted in the COR on the Methods of Evaluation and out-of-class assignments pages, indicate what the differences are and why they are being used. For instance, if labs, field trips, or site visits are required in the face to face section of this course, how will these requirements be met with the same rigor in the Distance Education section? Describe the ways in which instructor-student contact and student-student contact will be facilitated in the distance ed environments.

Online: Regular and effective contact between instructor and student in the online environment is accomplished primarily through weekly discussions within the learning management system (LMS); students post to weekly prompts, and the instructor engages with students in the resulting discussion threads. Options for additional methods of contact are identical to the onsite course, including messaging via LMS, a college-adopted networking app (such as Pronto), email, live video conferencing, and/or telephone. Student-to-student contact is accomplished primarily through weekly discussions and possibly a college-adopted networking app. All paper assignments are identical to those in an onsite class, except that they are submitted within the LMS. Likewise, quizzes and exams are also delivered within the LMS. The instructor is responsible for providing substantive feedback on student work via online methods such as rubrics, comment spaces, private online discussion, video conferencing, or direct messaging.

Hybrid: All student-instructor and student-student contact in a hybrid course are identical to the online course but with the addition of some face-to-face meetings that the instructor may use to connect with students through in-class lecture, discussion, testing, feedback, and other in-class activities.

iTV: Regular and effective contact between instructor and student in an iTV course is identical to a traditional onsite course, excepting that some students are attending the iTV course remotely. Additional methods of contact are identical to onsite courses. Student-to-student contact is likewise the same, with remote students participating equally with each other and with students at the host location. All paper assignments and their assessments are identical to those in a regular onsite class but will be collected and assessed using a medium such as LMS assignments or Turnitin. Lectures and class discussions are conducted through iTV. The instructor is responsible for providing feedback either through iTV conferences, e-mail, LMS messaging, phone conferences, or office hours. The instructor must provide substantive critiques of all essays, as well as some assessment of iTV class participation.

Good practice requires both asynchronous and synchronous contact for effective contact. Software and Equipment: What additional software or hardware, if any, is required for this course purely because of its delivery mode? How is technical support to be provided?

Up-to-date web browser.

Accessibility: Section 508 of the Rehabilitation Act requires access to the Federal government's electronic and information technology. The law covers all types of electronic and information technology in the Federal sector and is not limited to assistive technologies used by people with disabilities. It applies to all Federal agencies when they develop, procure, maintain, or use such technology. Federal agencies must ensure that this technology is accessible to employees and the public to the extent it does not pose an "undue burden". I am using -iTV—Interactive Video only -Learning management system -Publisher course with learning management system interface.

- Learning management system

Class Size: Good practice is that section size should be no greater in distance ed modes than in regular face-to-face versions of the course. Will the recommended section size be lower than in on-ground sections? If so, explain why.

Recommended class size is the same in all methods of delivery.

Emergency Distance Education Options The course will operate in remote delivery mode when all or part of the college service area is under an officially declared city, county, state, or federal state of emergency, including (check all that apply) - Online including all labs/activity hours - Hybrid with online lecture and onsite lab/activity hours - Correspondence education in high school and prison facilities - None. This course will be cancelled or paused if it cannot be held fully onsite.
